

The Sevenfold Icon of Narishya

Inscribe thou upon a wall my Icon, which is a star of seven points.

The Icon is the form of the magus, who is become the Gateway.

The first point is the head of the magus, which is the throne of his Will.

The third point is his right hand, which is the hand of Power.

It reacheth for the Citadel of Brass, where dwell those Spirits of Might who will serve the crafty magus.

The sixth point is his left hand, which is the hand of Darkness.

It reacheth for the Netherworld, where dwell the spectres of the dead, and where all manner of forgotten secrets lie, waiting to be unearthed by the cunning magus.

The fourth point is his right foot, which resteth in the Green Realm, where all the things in all the worlds are created for the use of the skillful magus.

The fifth point is his left foot, which resteth in the Void, where all Creation is dissolved, and all the works of the potent magus are ground to nothingness.

The second and seventh points are the Wings Invisible, which reach into the vasty Aethyreal seas and carry the designs of the artful magus to all the myriad spheres.

Engloss now the Icon with the rays of Will, and Power, and Darkness, and Generation, and it will serve the magus as a portal through the Veil, through which he may summon the servants of his choosing.
